

Guidelines for Authors, Review of Politics

Length of Articles 8,000–11,000 words, Book Reviews 900-1200

Double space, 1” margins

12 point, Times New Roman font

Footnotes in 10 pt. TNR, single-spaced

References are to appear in the footnotes, with full bibliographic information at first citation of a given work, last name and shortened title at subsequent citations. For frequently cited works, references can be given parenthetically in the main text. Do not use the author-date format with reference list. Consult Chicago Manual of Style, 16th ed., chap. 14 for proper form of citations. Some examples:

¹ Gabriel Kolko, The Politics of War: The World and United States Foreign Policy, 1943–1945 (New York: Random House, 1968), 123.

² Thomas Nagel, “What Is It Like to Be a Bat?,” Philosophical Review 83, no. 4 (1974): 445.

³ Robert Bolton, “Definition and Scientific Method in Aristotle’s Posterior Analytics and Generation of Animals,” in Philosophical Issues in Aristotle’s Biology, ed. Allan Gotthelf and James G. Lennox (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1987), 125.

Abstract no longer than 150 words

Acknowledgments no longer than 50 words

IDs no longer than 25 words

Max. Three levels of text: heading, subheading, and (if necessary) sub-subheading

Book reviews must have page numbers in-text following all quotations

Quotations of five or more lines should be in block form, i.e., indented and set off from surrounding text. Do not format manually line by line (i.e., using a hard return at the end of each line and indent at beginning of next). Quotations of less than five lines should be enclosed in quotation marks and run in to the surrounding text

Use American English spelling

Use italics, not boldface, for emphasis, and use it sparingly

Author info. in footer below main text, above acknowledgments, in this form: Author, position, dept., institution, physical address, email.

No footnotes in reviews; citations to works other than those under review should be kept to an absolute minimum